Ministers: Did you ever wonder how our Living God touches human beings to set them free from immorality and loss of self-control? Does our Gospel really bring good news and freedom to us in our daily lives? What causes our parishioners to lose their way from time to time? The author suggests solutions, learned over a lifetime, that build one upon the other to provide a fresh way of understanding our ministries. The book invites readers to assume they are reading it in the company of colleagues.

In the ensuing dialogues, the authors goal is to reach an understanding of the issues confronting churches and their parishioners. The book encourages using the technique of brainstorming solutions to develop Notions of Highest Understanding that meet today's levels of knowledge. The book borrows insights from science, mathematics, history, psychology, and sociology to help us cope with our personal theologies. It is time for us to realize that the various disciplines are not our enemies, but serve to guide us in our search for truth.
